Three members of the House of Representa tives are now engaged in scanning the estimates upon which will be based the appropriations for the governmental support of the District of Columbia for the next fiscal year. The task is not a small one nor is it to be dealt with in a superficial manner, for it involves the health and comfort of nearly 300,000 people, and may either facilitate or retard the material progress of the nation's capital. Some of the recommendations which are being considered by the subcommittee on District appropriations are of the utmost importance. Extension of the high-pressure water service, a general revision of the sewerage system, and provision for cleaning up the city and keeping it clean are most urgent needs. With the probability of a cholera visitation next summer staring the entire country in the face unduly economical ideas should not be permitted to prevail in respect to these subjects. Street improvements are also needed. During the past year the city has grown wonderfully and now there are hundreds of homes that can only be reached by painful progress over faulty sidewalks and unpaved streets. Some attention should be given the public school facilities; they are not equal to the accommodation of the hildren many of them sons and daughters of Congressmen who as anxious to secure their +++ Keen-witted democrats who are not afraid to assist in carrying the heavy responsibility which was acquired last election day insist that an extra session of Congress is an absolute necessity. Some of them are so anxious to make sure of democratic control in the national legislature that they propose to meet as soon as possible after the inauguration and, when the House has been organized, admit to statebood the territories of New Mexico and Arizona. This move. they believe, would result in four new demoeratic Senstors and in a majority for the domipant party about which there could be no speculation. The plan is satisfactory enough, but there are republicans who seem to be fully peremaded that New Mexico would elect a republican legislature at the first opportunity. This intimation is, however, lost on the enthusiasts who want tariff reform and want it in a hurry.
